Ambassador Henri HOPPENOT (standing), France's Permanent Representative to the U.N., this afternoon deposited his Government's instrument of ratification to the Convention with Secretary-General Dag HALMARSKJÖLD, who is seen here signing the procès-verbal of deposit.

The Convention, which was adopted at a 26-nation U.N. Conference in Geneva in July 1951, came into force on 22 April 1954. It has been formally accepted by nine governments.
