Dear Mr. Ambassador,

When the General Assembly created the United Nations Emergency Force in 1956, it established a committee to advise the Secretary-General.

Norway is a member of the Committee, the other members being Brazil, Canada, Ceylon, Colombia, India and Pakistan.

No similar step has been taken by the Security Council as regards the present United Nations operation in Lebanon. However, as Secretary-General, I have increasingly felt the need of the invaluable advice and support which I have enjoyed from the Advisory Committee in the case of the UNEF. For that reason I wish to invite you, together with representatives of other nations members of the Advisory Committee for the UNEF, to serve in a personal capacity on an advisory committee constituted by me, with an identical geographical composition as the one established for the Emergency Force.

You will undoubtedly wish to consult your Government on this assignment. I would appreciate to have your reply urgently so that the new committee can meet without delay.

I regret that in this way I have to ask you to assume added burdens, but I trust that you will fully appreciate the imperative reasons which prompt me to do so. Personally, I would view your participation in the new committee with great satisfaction and gratitude.

Yours sincerely,

Dag Hammarskjöld
Secretary-General
