Since my return to New York, I have wanted to write from the United Nations Headquarters to thank you again for all that you did to make my visit to Baalbeck one of such absorbing interest.

I had long expected that a tour of the site would be a memorable experience. It certainly proved to be so and was enriched by the fact that such an eminent authority as yourself described the background.

You gave us your time and knowledge so generously that, on behalf of my colleagues and myself, I would like to express my warm appreciation.

Yours sincerely,

Dag Hammarskjöld
