

Nr 388.

Av herr Hansson i Stockholm m. fl., i anledning av Kungl. Maj:ts proposition, nr 103, med förslag till förordning om statlig inkomst- och förmögenhetsskatt.

(Lika lydande med motion i Första kammaren nr 271.)

Stockholm den 18 mars 1927.

P. Albin Hansson.

Arthur Engberg.

Aug. Sävström.

Anders Anderson.

Viktor Larsson.

Bernh. Eriksson
i Grängesberg.

C. J. Johansson.

Edvard Johanson.

Ivar Vennerström.

PHILOSOPHY

PHILOSOPHY 101: Introduction to Philosophy. This course is designed to provide students with a broad overview of the major areas of philosophy, including metaphysics, epistemology, ethics, and political philosophy. The course will focus on the works of ancient and modern philosophers, and will emphasize the development of critical thinking skills.

PHILOSOPHY 102: Introduction to Logic. This course is designed to provide students with a solid foundation in the principles of logic, including propositional logic, predicate logic, and modal logic. The course will emphasize the application of logical principles to the analysis of philosophical arguments.

PHILOSOPHY 103: Introduction to Ethics. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of ethics, including utilitarianism, deontology, and virtue ethics. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary moral issues.

PHILOSOPHY 104: Introduction to Political Philosophy. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of political philosophy, including liberalism, conservatism, and socialism. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary political issues.

PHILOSOPHY 105: Introduction to the History of Philosophy. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major figures and ideas in the history of philosophy, from ancient Greece to the modern era. The course will emphasize the development of philosophical thought over time.

PHILOSOPHY 106: Introduction to the Philosophy of Language. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of the philosophy of language, including the philosophy of language, the philosophy of mind, and the philosophy of action. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary philosophical issues.

PHILOSOPHY 107: Introduction to the Philosophy of Science. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of the philosophy of science, including the philosophy of science, the philosophy of biology, and the philosophy of psychology. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary philosophical issues.

PHILOSOPHY 108: Introduction to the Philosophy of Law. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of the philosophy of law, including the philosophy of law, the philosophy of justice, and the philosophy of rights. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary philosophical issues.

PHILOSOPHY 109: Introduction to the Philosophy of Education. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of the philosophy of education, including the philosophy of education, the philosophy of teaching, and the philosophy of learning. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary philosophical issues.

PHILOSOPHY 110: Introduction to the Philosophy of Art. This course is designed to provide students with an understanding of the major theories of the philosophy of art, including the philosophy of art, the philosophy of aesthetics, and the philosophy of culture. The course will focus on the application of these theories to contemporary philosophical issues.